Gahanna City Council met in Regular Session on Monday, November 3, 2025 in Council Chambers. President of Council Merisa K. Bowers called the meeting to order at 7:03 p.m. Vice President Trenton I. Weaver delivered an Invocation and led members in the Pledge of Allegiance. The agenda was published on October 31, 2025.

Present 7 - Merisa K. Bowers, Jamille Jones, Nancy R. McGregor, Kaylee Padova, Stephen A. Renner, Michael Schnetzer, and Trenton I. Weaver

B. ADDITIONS OR CORRECTIONS TO THE AGENDA:

President Bowers stated that Ordinance 0045-2025 would be removed from the Consent Agenda and added to the Regular Agenda under G(2) - Ordinances for Second Reading and Adoption.

C. HEARING OF VISITORS:

Ross Goldsmith, 276 Gary Lee Drive. Mr. Goldsmith expressed his appreciation for the opportunity to attend the meeting. He explained that he ran for City Council two years ago and during his campaign he talked extensively about the need for the city to adopt a Strategic Plan. He expressed excitement at the city's decision to embark on the Strategic Plan project, and gratitude for the opportunity to serve on the Steering Committee. He said the process highlighted things that Gahanna is doing right, what it could be doing better, and where the city needs some major work. He said the Strategic Plan process made clear what needs should be accomplished, how it should be done, and ensuring it is broadly communicated. He stated that Gahanna faces the same issues as many municipalities, and that the Our Gahanna Strategic Plan creates thoughtful strategies to guide the work, implementation, and reporting to the community. He acknowledged that the plan would not satisfy every neighbor but felt it would help to build community. He encouraged the city to consider what parts of the plan new legislation responds to when introducing ordinances.

Tim McClurg, 935 Leaflock Court, spoke on the Strategic Plan. He stated he was also part of the Steering Committee and was previously a Citizens Academy cohort member. He stated that through these processes, he learned about how a city runs, and how different it is from the way people run their own lives. He noted there are many rules to be followed, and he felt people did not truly understand what goes into the operations of the city. He described city workers as dedicated, adding that the different departments want what is best for the city. He thought the Our Gahanna Strategic Plan was a good one, adding that failing to plan leads to failure. Mr. McClurg felt that what residents would look for next is more detail in the plan, such as how it would be carried out. He thought one part of that was the Reimagine Creekside plan, as Creekside was a major focus within the Steering Committee. He described city leadership as competent and dedicated to their jobs. He closed by encouraging community members to attend City Council meetings to speak up about what they do or do not like within the city.

D. PUBLIC HEARINGS:

Pursuant to Council Rules 9.10 and 9.11, the President of Council shall give a brief statement or explanation of the item under hearing. Prior to the opening of the public hearing, the administration may make a presentation of slides, videos, photos, staff comments, or combination thereof. Public comment will be opened with 3 minutes allowed per speaker. Speakers must complete a speaker slip and come to the podium when called and state their name and address for the record. Additional time, if needed, may be requested and permission is at the discretion of the President of Council.

ORD-0042-2025 AN ORDINANCE AUTHORIZING THE MAYOR TO ENTER INTO A DEVELOPMENT AGREEMENT WITH CONNECT REALTY LLC, BENSON CAPITAL, LLC, AND THE GAHANNA COMMUNITY IMPROVEMENT CORPORATION FOR THE REDEVELOPMENT OF VACANT AND BLIGHTED PROPERTIES IN THE CREEKSIDE DISTRICT

President Bowers introduced the ordinance under Public Hearing. She encouraged viewing the Creekside Reimagined web page for all prior meeting presentations and slides. She anticipated this evening's presentation to be more high-level and brief. She explained that the ordinance would allow the Mayor to enter into a development agreement with Connect Realty, LLC; Benson Capital, LLC; and the Gahanna Community Improvement Corporation for the redevelopment of vacant and blighted properties in the Creekside District. The item is scheduled for a vote on November 17, 2025. President Bowers invited Mayor Jadwin to provide additional remarks.

Mayor Jadwin added that Economic Development Director Jeff Gottke would have comments as well. Mayor Jadwin explained the project under consideration has been in progress for years. She stated that the community has been vocal about its desire to see a vibrant, successful Creekside. She shared that for over a decade the City has worked with economic development experts, private business and development communities, Creekside area businesses owners, and residents, to understand what Creekside needs to maximize its potential. She felt that the interest was reaffirmed through the Our Gahanna process, adding that Creekside has its own chapter in the Strategic Plan. Mayor Jadwin explained that the Community Improvement Corporation (CIC) had purchased approximately 5 acres of parcels in the Creekside District, and the parcels were the subject of the conversations that have been had during Council and Committee of the Whole meetings. The CIC then issued a request for proposals (RFP) for the purpose of having the parcels redeveloped. Over the last three years, the CIC and the city's Economic Development Department have been engaged in negotiations to have the parcels redeveloped. Mayor Jadwin invited Director Gottke to provide additional comments.

Director Gottke explained that it would be helpful to recap some of the public engagement steps that has happened through the process, and wished to provide an overview of comments received thus far. The Creekside Reimagined website had been created, along with an email address specifically to receive feedback on the Creekside plans. There were four public events held, two of which were for the general public and two for business owners and residents in the Creekside area. There were also meetings with private groups and there had been extensive media coverage to this point. Additionally, there was a presence at events like Touch-a-Truck and the Mill Street Market. Finally, there would be an opportunity for feedback through the Public Hearing. Director Gottke also stated that informal conversations happen on a daily basis with residents and interested parties. He stated that feedback had been largely positive, and categorized feedback into four primary categories. First, there was much discussion about parking needs, and feedback regarding the 50 parking spots that are proposed to be removed. A study had been done to better understand the parking demands for the area. Traffic volume also continues to be a discussion point. He stated that traffic impact studies are required by the Engineering Department through the building and engineering approval processes. The studies are vetted by the city's experts to better understand how traffic will be impacted and what mitigation measures can be taken. Director Gottke also stated there were questions about what will happen during construction, such as whether residents would be able to access their apartments safely and efficiently, whether the parking garage will remain open, and how construction would be phased to keep businesses open. He stated that the Economic Development Department is working toward solutions to these questions, adding that it will be under their purview to coordinate with stakeholders throughout the life of the project. Finally, there were broad questions about the economic need, such as whether the project was necessary and whether it was the best thing for Creekside. He felt the questions were valid to raise and work through. He described most feedback as cautiously optimistic: people want the redevelopment to work, but they have valid questions and concerns. He added that two letters had been received that day, one of which was from Mifflin Township Trustees and the other from a local Creekside District business owner.

President Bowers opened the Public Hearing to public comment at 7:21 p.m.

George Mrus, 1217 Sanctuary Place. Mr. Mrus stated that he and his wife had lived in Gahanna for over 19 years. Mr. Mrus currently serves as the secretary for the CIC and previously served as president. He stated one of the primary missions of the Gahanna CIC is to promote economic, commercial, and civic development in the city through maximizing available redevelopment solutions. He stated that in recent years the CIC had engaged in many conversations and had spent many hours doing due diligence, and a Councilmember had been present at each CIC meeting. Mr. Mrus described the current development agreement as one that meets the primary mission of the CIC. He stated the proposed development from Connect Realty and Benson Capital has an appropriate mix of uses that will support an enhanced and vibrant Creekside for many years to come, and described the agreement as “transformational.” Mr. Mrus asked that City Council approve the development agreement with Connect Realty and Benson Capital.

Betty Collins, 917 Harmony Court. Ms. Collins stated that she and her husband had been members of the Gahanna community since September 2002. Her children were Gahanna Lincoln High School graduates, and she owned a business in the City from 1997 to 2012. She described Gahanna as her community of choice, adding that she served on the Chamber of Commerce Board previously, and was currently a volunteer CIC board member for the last ten years, and currently serves as the board president. She stated that in 2021, the CIC board, including two members of Council, the current administration, and the Economic Development Department, focused on a plan to promote economic development in the Creekside area. Ms. Collins explained that from her perspective as a business owner and CPA, the importance of economic development could not be underestimated. She explained that the property was purchased so the project could be controlled and come together in a way that means something for the entire area. She stated they wanted a developer that would meet the expectations of mixed use, residential, and commercial. They also wanted to make sure the project was in alignment with the city's Strategic Plan. She stated that she believed Benson Capital and Connect Realty are the right developer for the project, and are in alignment with the city's vision. She respectfully requested that City Council support the development agreement. She ended by thanking City Council for the opportunity to speak, while noting that Gahanna is a unique city encouraging continued progress.

Tyler Abrams, 105 Brookhill Drive, introduced himself as the Board President of Visit Gahanna. Mr. Abrams stated that everyone in attendance this evening was working toward a better Gahanna, and added that he was excited to voice his support for the project. He stated that Visit Gahanna's job is to promote Gahanna and to bring people into the city. He stated that in its current state, Creekside is sorely lacking in activities and things to do. He felt there was ample opportunity to get more people in the area supporting local businesses, adding that local business money would support the City of Gahanna. In particular, adding a hotel would be extremely important, and there has not been a new hotel built in the area for 20 or more years.

Alveda Bates, 100 Jahn Drive. Ms. Bates stated she has been a Gahanna resident for around 55 years. She felt that one aspect that had been overlooked in regard to the revitalization was public art. She noted that since Gahanna hosts the iconic Creekside Blues & Jazz Festival, a mural of blues and jazz icons would be symbolic and timeless. Ms. Bates recalled Mayor Jadwin's persistence in growing the Blues & Jazz Festival, and encouraged art to be a part of the revitalization of Creekside.

Tim McClurg, 935 Leaflock Court, stated he supported the Creekside project. He shared his disappointment that there were only a few restaurants at Creekside, and there was no longer a place where one could have a glass of wine and look out at the creek. He recalled that Creekside was originally pitched as a river walk, and he noted that the path to walk on is limited. He hoped to see more shops and things to do along the river. He felt that the space was not utilized in the way it could be. Mr. McClurg acknowledged the potential issues with parking if the city lot is removed, such as less space for the Blues & Jazz Festival, and lack of parking for events held at the Sanctuary. He suggested the planned hotel have a restaurant overlooking the Creekside area, and closed his comments by reiterating his that Creekside could be designed in a way to support a river walk.

Keisha Smith-Jones introduced herself as the President of the Gahanna Area Chamber of Commerce, but wanted to speak from her role as a local business owner. Ms. Smith-Jones is the owner of The Executive's Wealth Advisor, located at 81 Mill Street. She stated that although she lives and works through many of the same frustrations that have already been voiced, such as traffic and parking issues, that she recognized the development project as one that could strengthen the community. She highlighted four points in support of the project. First, she stated the project can revitalize local commerce could bring in more visitors who in turn would spend money supporting the restaurants, boutiques, and services at Creekside. Second, when residents and business owners see investment in the community, it signals growth and resilience and builds confidence and stability. In turn, the city can continue to attract new businesses and support those already existing. Third, with smart design and community input, the development can promote sustainable prosperity. It can expand the local tax base, support better infrastructure, and sport the schools and services that sustain families and the workforce. Finally, Smith-Jones stated that Gahanna is an evolving Central Ohio suburban community. It is set apart from other surrounding communities by its walkability and sense of community. She noted that while she shared frustrations that had been expressed, there is an opportunity to shape Creekside into a destination that is reflective of the Gahanna community.

With no additional speakers, President Bowers closed the Public Hearing at 7:39 p.m.
