4. Jeannie Hoffman, 708 Waybaugh Drive -

Hoffman read and submitted her comments for the record:

"1-Pollinator City- does that mean the city will no longer spray round up?"

2-I brought up the trees along Stygler and the poor shape they are in at a coffee with council. I have checked back at the action items and there has been nothing posted. The link for the 2016 actions items is a bad link and there is no link not listed for the 2017 action items.

Years ago the trees along Stygler would be so beautiful when they were in bloom. The whole street was lined with white blossoms for at least a full week. The last few years the trees have become diseased and look really unhealthy. This year there are minimal blooms and a few of the trees look completely dead and the ones that are alive have fewer leaves than they should. There are some branches that are dead on many of the trees, along with the horrible way they have been trimmed they just do not look attractive. I realize the street trees are the responsibility of the property owner. The city chose these trees to be planted. They were all put in at the same time. The city was made aware of their health many years ago with a phone call from me to the previous mayor and the city employed arborist. The arborist said they could be treated. Nothing was done to correct the disease at the time. I hope the city will step up and take some kind of action on this.

If you have ever gone door to door in Ward 1 you will hear many people feel like we are the neglected step child of Gahanna and that the city does not really care about this side of the creek. While I know that is not totally true, things like these trees being let go add to the feeling of neglect.

3-1 hope you have all taken a moment to look at the petition we have on file with the Clerk of Council to allow backyard chickens. I am asking that you all sign the petition. I don't want you to sign because you are in favor of allowing chickens, but because you don't want to be the elected official that does not want to allow the process of government to work for the people. After the 4 appointed planning commission members got to speak for the whole community with zero accountability to the residents, the next step to move the issue forward was for council to put this issue on the ballot. Donna Perry asked council to do just that and she never got a reply. The next option available to residents according to our charter is a citizen's initiative. Now we all know council was very much in favor of the citizen lead initiative for dedicated funding for parks and rec. We kept hearing over and over that if the citizens bring forward a ballot issue we should be supportive of letting the voters decide. I hope you all still have that same thought when it comes to an issue you may not be personally in favor of. You will be signing the petition to allow the process to take place. To let the voters of Gahanna decide. I have been getting very positive feedback from people I have talked to about this issue and am at this moment fairly confident we will not have problem collecting the number of signatures we need."

Angelou said she takes great exception to Hoffman calling Ward 1 "the neglected step child"; she said she has lived on that side of town for almost 30 years and has never looked down on that side of the creek; Council has done a lot of planning for that side of town; plans to invest on improvements.
