The agenda was published on December 1, 2023.

B. ADDITIONS OR CORRECTIONS TO THE AGENDA:

None.

C. HEARING OF VISITORS:

Mr. Dustin Holfinger, 3098 East High St., Springfield, Ohio, spoke on ORD-0071-2023.

Mr. Holfinger introduced himself as the State Government Relations Director for the American Heart Association. He thanked council for giving him the opportunity to opine on Ordinance 0071-2023. He said that with tobacco retail licensing, tobacco retailers can be held accountable for violating current and future tobacco control laws. The requirements will allow Franklin County Public Health to have oversight on what products are sold and provide regular compliance checks. Tobacco products are sold seemingly everywhere, making it easy for underage buyers to access many products, including e-cigarettes. Holfinger stated that tobacco companies target youth, attempting to addict a new generation of tobacco users. Holfinger applauded the City of Gahanna and Councilwoman Padova for efforts to reduce tobacco use among youth. He stated that a strong tobacco retail licensing program will reduce youth access to tobacco products. Additionally, research has shown that compliance is most effective when the tobacco retailer or license holder is held accountable, rather than non-management employees. Holfinger appreciates that penalties are levied upon the retail license holder. He also noted that penalties for violations are shifted from youth to the license holders. The fees paid by retailers fund the compliance program, ensuring neither taxpayers nor the city incur additional taxes. The fees also fund additional education and cessation programs. Holfinger made himself available for questions.

Kathleen Marron, 303 Sumption Dr., Gahanna, Ohio, spoke on ORD-0071-2023.

Mrs. Marron stated she is speaking in support of the proposed tobacco retail license ordinance. She stated that, considering the number of retailers near the high school, the TRL may help deter the establishments from selling to minors. They can avoid fines simply by carding, which happens when purchasing alcohol. Additionally, requiring a TRL does not cost the city or taxpayers, as it pays for itself through implementation and enforcement.

Connie Spear, 361 Emory St., Gahanna, Ohio, spoke on ORD-0071-2023.

Mrs. Spear thanked council for the opportunity to weigh in on the tobacco retail licensing ordinance. She has been a Gahanna resident for eight years and feels it is a great place to raise her children. She does not want her children to fall into the statistics of youth who use tobacco products. One way to help prevent this is by requiring licenses for tobacco retailers. Mrs. Spear questioned why retailers would stop selling to minors if they are not held accountable. She added that she has heard of a fifth-grade elementary school student caught vaping. She acknowledged while they probably did not purchase the product, it may have come from an older sibling. She stated there are seven locations high schoolers can walk to, and the business owners must be held accountable with financial penalties. Then, the fees incurred can help fund additional education and cessation programs. Mrs. Spear thanked council for their time, adding that she hopes to continue to see Gahanna as a safe place to raise her children.

President Renner noted that the item is on the agenda for a first reading. He said this is a normal part of the process to read it into the public record. Council is expected to take legislative action and vote on the ordinance on December 18. He thanked the speakers for attending.

Dr. Laura Gravelin, 85 McNaughten Rd, Columbus, Ohio, via video spoke on the Tobacco Retail License Ordinance (ORD-0071-2023).

Dr. Gravelin introduced herself as the medical director of the electrophysiology lab and co-director of the women's heart program at Mt. Carmel Health System. She is also the local director of the American Heart Association, whose mission is to help individuals live long and healthy lives, and whose mission also focuses on equitable health. A priority is to prevent and control tobacco and vaping across central Ohio for children and young adults. Dr. Gravelin stated that more children are using tobacco products and are also using them more frequently. She stated that approximately one in four are vaping, making vapes the most popular tobacco product amongst youth. Many youth and parents are not aware that e-cigarettes are less safe and contain more nicotine than traditional tobacco products. Products are sold in places that are accessible to children, and studies show that three out of four times children are able to purchase tobacco products, even when they are not of legal age. Gravelin stated her enthusiasm for Gahanna's efforts to ensure tobacco products are kept out of the hands of youth through the tobacco retail licensure program. The program also permits officials to limit where tobacco can be sold and where retailers are located, to limit the proximity to children. Dr. Gravelin thanked the city, on behalf of the American Heart Association, for looking out for the community's children and improving the safety and health of the community through the use of a program proven to be an effective tool.

J. COUNCIL COMMENT:

Councilmember Angelou shared that this is her last month on council, and it is very difficult. It has been an amazing time. In reference for the individuals who spoke from the American Heart Association, she mentioned a previous heart attack she had while on the dais. She shared that great attendance for a councilmember is required, as she had been to every meeting, and she was not able to attend that particular meeting due to her emergency.

President Renner commented that he remembered the incident and could confirm that Councilwoman Angelou had been in attendance prior to the scare. He expressed gratitude that she recovered.

Councilmember McGregor shared that the Historical Society held the Victorian Christmas event. There were about 200 attendees. Victorian Santa, crafts, decorations, cookies, and cider were all part of the event. She remarked on the event's success and thanked those who attended.

Councilmember Bowers announced her constituent hours in conjunction with President Renner and Councilmember-elect Jamille Jones on Friday, December 8th, at 7:30 a.m. at Creekside Café. The intended discussion is the 2024 budget, allowing constituents to meet with councilmembers in a less formal setting. The week prior, Bowers attended the Columbus Metropolitan Club's luncheon on zoning. Her major takeaways were an emphasis on the ways in which local government play a role on housing, and that Gahanna is moving forward at a great pace. She thanked Director Blackford for his work on the zoning code rewrite and feels that Gahanna is ahead of other communities in the region in addressing concerns that are being discussed across the region and the state. Families Flourish, formerly known as Move to Prosper, hosted the event.

President Renner thanked Councilwoman Bowers for her mention of the Columbus Metropolitan luncheon, and recalled the tool to attack zoning issues in Central Ohio titled, "Is Snob Zoning America's New Redlining?" He also urged residents to be mindful of the information they share about the city on social platforms, ensuring they have all the facts. He said that Sheetz is having a workshop because the developer is interested in building in Gahanna. No one is trying to hide it. The developer is going through the legal process because everyone has the right to buy and sell property. He encouraged residents to engage and reach out, but to please be careful and thoughtful of what is posted online.
