C. HEARING OF VISITORS.

SWEARING IN OF POLICE RECRUITS:

- Maria Curren
- Brian Smith
- Jeffrey Hoffman

The Mayor, with the participation of the Chief of Police, the Director of Public Safety, City Council members, and City Attorney, swore in new Police Recruits Maria Curren, Brian Smith and Jeffrey Hoffman.

Mr. Schnetzer said:

To the Council, the Mayor, and to those in the audience, thank you for the opportunity to say a few words. First, I would like to congratulate Officers Curren, Hoffman and Smith. Welcome to the team. I am confident you will serve the community well for many years to come.

This swearing in should be cause for celebration, not just because the Gahanna Division of Police is adding three well-qualified members to its ranks, but also for what this moment represents. It was not that long ago, that the City's future finances were pressured and its future was uncertain. Public safety is at the core of services that the City provides, and while perhaps, not the base case scenario, reductions to public safety staff through attrition was not outside the realm of possibilities. Furthermore, prior year budgets included debate surrounding the deferral of necessary police equipment, and whether or not there were adequate funds to defray the cost of timely equipment lifecycle replacement.

Thanks to the efforts of a dedicated group of residents, city staff, and elected officials, earlier this year, voters delivered a brighter and more certain financial outlook for our community.

Today's swearing in ceremony is a major step towards a brighter future: a future where the addition of new personnel permits the Division of Police to implement a prudent succession plan, a future where our officers have the necessary equipment to carry out a dangerous job, and a future where Gahanna residents can be assured of continued excellence in the delivery of public safety services.

Kevin Dengel, 956 Cordero Ln, President of the Gahanna Area Arts Council, thanked City Council for allowing them to present their Peer Community Review to Committee the previous week. He introduced the speakers that were there to speak in support of the GAAC.

Megan Adams, 201 Benton Way said she is a Gahanna resident and gallery chair on the GAAC board of directors. She has invested her passion for arts education through the development of Momentum, a gallery and community space at 116 Mill Street. In 2012 she moved to Gahanna from Denver, Colorado and fell in love with the Creekside area. She feels that what is missing is vibrancy, an active participation by a community in the appreciation of its uniqueness and of an attraction of visitors seeking new experiences. In Colorado, they use public spaces for the arts including sculptures, murals, amphitheaters, city development and small artist communities to name a few. It makes these places worth visiting and makes the arts accessible to everyone. What she has learned from her time on the GAAC is that they are not a small group of likeminded people, but an entire city waiting for the opportunity to become the vibrant cultural city that they deeply want. Over the summer she joined up with GIFT, Gahanna Inclusion for Teens and Young Adults which creates a series of inclusive art experiences within the Momentum Gallery. Thanks to a dedicated sponsor and local artists, hands on art activities and educational tours were provided and making those connections were a highlight of her summer. Supporting the arts is an investment in the vitality of our city.

Tara Smith, 5724 N. 4th Street, Columbus, says she was a 2013 graduate of Gahanna Lincoln High School and recently obtained her Bachelor's Degree in Theater from Otterbein University in 2017. She said that courtesy of the investment of the arts by the Gahanna Lincoln School District, many of her friends have gone on to pursue the arts professionally. Unfortunately due to the lack of arts opportunities in Gahanna, these art professionals have moved away including her because there are more opportunities outside of Gahanna. If there were more opportunities people would consider moving back. She recommends supporting the Gahanna Area Arts Commission for 2 reasons- to encourage people her age to come back to their hometown and, to develop opportunities for Gahanna's next generation of creatives before they too move away.

Janelle Hallett, 5608 Hensel Woods, is an organizational program coordinator with the Ohio Arts Council. She explained that the Ohio Arts Council is a state agency that funds and supports arts experiences to strengthen Ohio communities culturally, educationally, and economically. Their grants leverage a high match ratio from its grantees $42 in local and private funding matches every 1 OAC dollar funded. Research from Bowling Green State University conducted in 2018 shows that Ohio's creative industries support nearly 290,000 jobs and contribute more than 41 billion dollars to the state's economy. The GAAC received project support funding from the OAC in 2020 from the arts start program. She shared some of the comments from the OAC members that reviewed GAAC's application for funding. The OAC supports what GAAC is doing to establish a local agency in the community.

Amanda Morris, 153 N. High Street, Gahanna her business is the Mug and Brush but she said she is a student of CCAD and is a fellow creative. She said they have revolving art shows in her shop and took park with the Arts Council and everyone is interested in doing artistic things and bringing people in. She wanted to offer her support and thinks this is a step in the right direction.

Henri Goulet, 336 McCutcheon Rd, he said he is a former Fortune 500 executive from the health care sector whose background includes visionary strategic planning, paradigm analysis, and holistic 360 degree thinking that is focused on the holistic wellbeing of the entire civic entity: family, community, congregation, education, business, arts, entertainment, health, media and government. He said he assumed such a focus would be inherent to a city whose very name denotes the confluence of three creeks into one. Such holistic wellbeing of a city is most effectively achieved when the arts are placed at the strategic center of civic infrastructure. The GAAC has already made a contribution to our city because of its mission, vision and values. He recommends that the city designate the GAAC as the community's official local arts agency and allocate tax revenue to support the work that is doing. This will allow for the establishment of an operating budget to plan its programs and open them up to grants. He also would like Creekside designated as an arts district as defined in ORC.

ORD-0111-2019 To Gather Public Input for the Requested Vacation of Public Right of Way: Part of North Street (Additional Public Input Meeting will be scheduled November 18, 2019)

Doug Maddy, 120 N. High Street: Mr. Maddy said he is also interested in enhancing the vibrancy of downtown Gahanna and thinks that this project will significantly do so by putting additional feet on the street which will help all of the businesses in downtown Gahanna. He said they have engaged their engineers do a study on North Street. A couple of members from their team met with the City Engineer last week and are waiting on some feedback from the City Engineer and once they have that it will delivered to the civil engineer and be taken into consideration for the study that they will prepare.

Patricia Kovacs, 527 Haversham Dr said she wasn't proponent or opponent but asked that they be required to provide access to the multi-use trail that is behind the current condominiums.

Tom Liskay, 457 Tresham Rd said on the vacation of North Street, it is public property and the city should be reimbursed. There is financial incentive with the tax abatement and that they're asking for vacation of the bike multi-use property on the west side of the development west of Mill Street, there are 2 easements there and they've asked that those also be vacated by your agreement. They could be changed or moved to accommodate people with bicycles but please do not, let's not lose our rights to the west side right there by the creek.

Vivian Miteny, 167 Highmeadow Dr said she has some concerns with the closure of North Street and asks that tax payers not be accountable to pay for that vacation. That should be part of the Developer's costs. Also the elevation on the complex does not represent the true size of 5 stories, there are no set-backs and she thinks it will contrast with how the light and air and vibrancy will be situated to Carpenter and the other streets surrounding Mill Street.

Joe Keehner, 116 D Town Street said he just heard about the project recently and that closing off North Street will be problematic because it is one less way to connect going east. There are already 2 streets that are one way, that only leaves North Street and Shull as two way streets. If traffic is stopped on any of the east west thoroughfares like the alley south of the herb center makes more sense as a pedestrian way but not for vehicles. He said he was on the Planning Commission for 8 years and has only seen one drawing and it looks like a megalith of boxy apartments. That would be 2 and a half blocks basically of massive apartments which would also be a block to connecting to part of old Gahanna. So it seems a bit problematic to be closing off North Street for a lot of different reasons.

Jim McGregor, 180 Academy Ct. said that redevelopment is a good thing and we support and enjoy innovative investment, new exciting architecture, and the benefits of additional square footage. However, there is a procedure for proposing such projects which the city has not followed. Attorney Ben Hale was one of the great gentlemen in Central Ohio Development and he did so much good for all of us. Attorney Hale once told Mr. McGregor that he may think he opposes or gets frustrated with the administrative process, but it is the exact opposite. His clients are willing to invest millions in Gahanna only if they are sure the property next to them will be held to the same high standards by which they abide. He continued, that there is a process that begins with a meeting between the builder and the City Engineer. Routinely the City Engineer will require that the developer to provide the City new right of way for necessary intersection and road improvements caused by the development. He or she will require the builder to pay the construction costs of the necessary improvements. Sometimes the City Engineer will require a traffic study be completed before he or she can make such a determination. There is a give and take in these discussions. Agreements are reached. The City Engineer knows the City's cash flow for such projects. The developer would also broach the subject of right of way abandonment at this point. It's only in the most unusual circumstances that a city would abandon active right of way. Right of Way is the back bone of a city. He continued, to wind up, the Mill Street Developer issues that Mayor Kneeland has put forth are very reasonable and we should hang on to the development process and begin that process the way we always have because it worked so well. But the Engineer has to be involved, the Development Director has to be involved, none of which have been fully vetted according to the Mayor's report. This is a hearing that is out of sequence. There is no traffic study. So his support is of Mayor Kneeland's suggestion to step back. This is a right of way that has been there 150 years and not addressing that is not ready. This information is needed.

Merisa Bowers, 363 Higley Ct said that she is speaking personally and based upon conversations with constituents over the last several months. This was one of the most talked about issues in the city- how it would affect the entire community. The passage of issue 12 has created a new urgency for our community to prioritize development that generates taxable income. With 100% credit for income taxes paid elsewhere, most of it going to Columbus, Gahanna must use its resources wisely and with discretion. These hearings aren't about whether the development should be built, it is permitted under current zoning, but whether to determine if this project is so special and valuable as to justify hundreds of thousands of dollars or more in tax dollars to subsidize this project. This project should be going through established processes. She opposes the use of tax dollars on this project including the donation of North Street or any other private or public property. The physical building is fraught with problems. As presented by architects at the Planning Commission meeting, the structure is 5 stories of wood frame on slab, not even close to industry best practices. What this means is it will not tolerate flooding in an area not 50 feet from the creek, it will not withstand heavy use common of an apartment building and reasonably, this project will only look good for about 15 years, then what kind of rent will it generate. We can list the variances and other physical problems with the structures but they should be addressed by Planning Commission first as has been the policy and practice of this city. We are not going to be generating any income from this project. As the letter released from outside counsel to the Development Department, the requests from the developer are out of line with standard incentives for this area which have already been subsidized for this development with the CRA. She closed by asking that the project be referred back to the administration and rerouted back to its normal process.

Terry Birchler, 171 N High Street on the North side of North Street is still trying to figure how the closure of North Street will affect his business. He said he only had one point to make and that was once this decision is made and this project is complete, it can't be undone. For that reason alone it should take more than a compelling argument, it should be an overwhelming reason to close the street. So far he doesn't feel that a compelling argument has been made. All of the positives can be accomplished without closing the street. He said it feels like there needs to be a significant argument as to why the developer can't simply develop the car wash and other properties without having to close the street without accomplishing this.

Mike Hroncich, 775 Gulf Stream Ct: (from provided written document) Good evening. Thank you for allowing me to speak tonight. I'd like to begin by saying that I am in favor of development on the northern portion of Mill Street, and throughout Gahanna. While my preference would be mixed-use development for this area, I am willing to listen to any options brought forward. To this point, I have several concerns about the request to vacate North Street. The first being that that developer requested that no traffic study be completed, as seen in Point 4A of the Developer Agreement. Traffic during rush hours in the morning and evening is a consistent challenge for many residents in our community. Eliminating an outlet for traffic, while adding more cars to drive through the area, in my opinion, requires a traffic study. Secondly, in May of this year, the residents of Gahanna voted to increase the City Income Tax increase from 1.5% to 2.5%. I believe the residents did this to preserve our quality of life and allow for future investment within our community. I don't believe the residents voted for this so that 6 months later, city property, paid for by the taxpayers, would be given away for free. The value of the developer's project is approximately 22 million dollars. The tax abatement is worth approximately $9.9 million dollars. The developer is currently asking Gahanna to pay for $1.2 million dollars in expenses, ranging from Waiver Fees to infrastructure Improvements. That's $11.1 million dollars that the developer is saving, and that doesn't include the value of North Street. There is a value associated with North Street, and I'd willing to negotiate that value as part of a deal, but to give it away for free? Absolutely not.

I'd also like to bring forth another idea related to North Street, and this project as a whole. Two of our current City Council members, Ms. Angelou & Mr. Leeseburg, have received campaign donations from this developer, their family members, or the developer's attorney over the past several years. Ms. Angelou has received $250 dollars, and Mr. Leeseburg has received $550 dollars since 2017, Or 10% of what he raised in 2017. I have these questions to ask of the both of you. Are these campaign donations worth anyone questioning the objectivity of our governing body? Are these campaign donations worth anyone questioning the validity of this project? Ms. Angelou & Mr. Leeseburg, you both are civil servants, and I have tremendous respect for your roles in our community. Due to that respect, and the respect that I want others to bestow on our government, I am requesting that both of you recuse yourselves from all conversations related to this development. Doing so would prevent these questions, and any further questions, being asked regarding the legitimacy of this project.

Finally, i'll leave you all with my favorite quote of all-time, from American author Zig Ziglar, "When you do the right things the right way, you have nothing to lose, because you have nothing to fear." Thank you for your time.

Mr. Maddy said to some of the comments this evening, he heard many comments that will not be addressed until later on in the process. He said a couple of the speakers are not informed with the process that has come thus far. There have been 24 plus meetings now with either the Mayor, Council or otherwise. He said he would reinforce to Council that they have committed to do a traffic study and in reference to Mrs. Bower's comment, they are not interested in going back in the process, they have been at this a long, long time 24+ meetings and 2 years in the planning process, not going back. He hopes Council will consider the vacation of North Street.

Mrs. Angelou asked if Mr. Maddy gave any money to her campaign this year.

Mr. Maddy replied he did not.

Mr. Renner asked Mr. Maddy if he did not support Council if they decided to move this to Planning Commission.

Mr. Maddy said he supports it moving to Planning Commission sooner than later. He is not interested in going back to step one and starting over as was suggested.

Mr. Renner said he understood, he interpreted it as getting back to the public process which was working with the City Engineer, Planning, Development team etc...

Mr. Maddy said they are committee to send the drawings to Planning Commission as soon as they get through the vacation of North Street and Development agreement. There has been a preliminary meeting with Planning Commission and feedback received and made some alterations to the drawings and happy to see them.

President Metzbower closed the public hearing at 8:05 p.m.

ORD-0106-2019 ORDINANCE AUTHORIZING THE HOUSING OFFICER TO ENTER INTO A COMMUNITY REINVESTMENT AREA AGREEMENT (CRA) WITH EASTGATE COMMERCIAL PARK LLC, FOR A TAX ABATEMENT FOR A TEN YEAR PERIOD; FOR ONE HUNDRED PERCENT PROPERTY TAX ABATEMENT ON THE INCREASED VALUE OF THE PROPERTY; FOR PROPERTY LOCATED AT 6579 TAYLOR ROAD; PARCEL ID NO. 027-000008; PART OF COMMUNITY REINVESTMENT AREA #1.

Mr. Larick said that he wanted to make clear that there have been many communications when it comes to revenue streams, tax abatements, CRAs and a whole spectrum of items that represent incentive. Discussions often come back to the schools and how it may impact the schools. This particular project, essentially, the schools, directly through the Gahanna Jefferson Education Foundation who are the owners of interest thought the willing of the property to the Foundation of this project, in effect, it is the schools, the Education Foundation that would have to be supportive or knowledgeable of the fact that there is a CRA on this. Every discussion around incentives, the schools are brought up, and yet there is a good project here that does have a relationship back to the schools, that the Foundation should be aware of because they are the material property owners due to the willing of the property to the Foundation. This property is in Ward 3 and should add value to the community. He just wanted to bring awareness that the same asks are occurring within a property within a property that is associated with our school system, as other folks make as well.
