K. COUNCIL COMMENT:

Councilmember Renner expressed appreciation to his colleagues and Mayor Jadwin for the joint resolution recognizing Earth Day. He stated that the resolution was actionable and forward-looking and expressed his impression with the activities led by City Hall and community organizations. He emphasized the importance of remembering that every day is Earth Day and that caring begins with sharing the places the community values.

Councilmember Schnetzer shared that a friend forwarded him a recent 60 Minutes interview with former Senator Ben Sasse, which he watched. He noted that Senator Sasse faced a diagnosis of stage 4 pancreatic cancer and acknowledged limited time. He reflected on the honesty and wisdom expressed in the interview and noted that Senator Sasse stepped away from the U.S. Senate, which he viewed as indicative of strong character. He summarized key points from the interview, including concerns that neither political party addressed significant issues and that politics had become performative. He highlighted the importance of community and relationships over political identity and encouraged others to watch the interview, noting that both an abridged and an extended version were available.

Councilmember Padova stated that she planned a litter cleanup at her daughter's school on Earth Day but had to change plans due to tree trimming and playground closure. She reported that she instead visited Creekside, where her daughter expressed disappointment at the lack of litter. She commended the team responsible for maintaining Creekside. She added that she later participated in a cleanup event where she found litter behind the Wendy's parking area, and thanked those who participated in keeping the city clean.

Councilmember Bowers thanked Councilmember Schnetzer for referencing the Sasse interview and stated that its message resonated with her. She reflected on the importance of using time effectively to benefit the community. She reported that the Columbus Metropolitan Club Forum hosted a discussion on data centers and encouraged others to view it online, noting that panelists discussed energy, infrastructure, and land use impacts. She also announced an upcoming "Breaking the Silence" panel discussion and resource fair on April 29, 2026, at ETSS focused on domestic violence and related issues, including participation from local experts. She referenced a domestic violence fatality report and noted that incidents between domestic partners remained high despite overall declines in homicide rates. She also referenced her constituent report and highlighted recognition of volunteer contributions, including honoring an Eagle Scout, and emphasized the importance of civic engagement.

Vice President Jones thanked Councilmember Schnetzer for sharing the interview and stated that she appreciated the message and intended to watch it.
